DETAILED ACTION

The Examiner acknowledges the applicant's Amendment filed Aug 16, 2004 in response to the Office action made on Mar 16, 2004 and canceling of claims 4 and 7.

Claim Rejections - 35 USC § 103

1. The following is a quotation of 35 U.S.C. 103(a) which forms the basis for all obviousness rejections set forth in this Office action:

(a) A patent may not be obtained though the invention is not identically disclosed or described as set forth in section 102 of this title, if the differences between the subject matter sought to be patented and the prior art are such that the subject matter as a whole would have been obvious at the time the invention was made to a person having ordinary skill in the art to which said subject matter pertains. Patentability shall not be negated by the manner in which the invention was made.

2. Claims 1, 6, and 11 are rejected under 35 U.S.C. 103(a) as being unpatentable over Freda, U.S. Patent 3,365,024 in view of Shepard, U.S. Patent 4,281,779.

Freda shows, in Figs. 1-3, a device for applying a fluid onto a surface, comprising; a work surface (the surface that touches the bearing) for engagement with the surface (the bearing);

a plurality of outlets 24 arranged in the work surface for permitting transfer of the fluid to the surface;

a duct 23 through which the fluid is flowable to the outlets;

wherein the work surface is substantially concave curved;

wherein the outlets are radially spaced on the convex curved work surface for applying the fluid onto an external cylindrical surface of a workpiece;

Art Unit: 3682

and further comprising a pin 10 for supporting a workpiece having a cylindrical tube like part;

but fails to show a closure member in each outlets biased by a spring.

Shepard teaches, in Figs. 7-11, a device for applying a fluid onto a surface comprising a closure member 92 disposed rotatably and displaceably in an outlet 90 for movement between a first position (Fig. 9) in which the closure element closes the outlet and a second position (Fig. 11) in which the closure element opens the outlet for dispensing the fluid onto the surface; the closure member protrudes outward over the work surface and being configured to be pressed by the surface when in contact therewith for movement of the closure member from the first position to the second position; and a spring 94 for urging the closure member into the first position and for returning the closure member from the second position to the first position.

It would have been obvious to a person of ordinary skill in the art at the time the invention was made to modify the outlet of Freda with the valve outlet as taught by Shepard in order to provide a cleaner and waste preventing device so that the labor for cleaning can be reduced and so that waste of lubricant can be reduced.

Allowable Subject Matter

3. Claims 8 and 9 are allowed.

Response to Arguments

4. In response to applicant's argument that there is no suggestion to combine the references, the examiner recognizes that obviousness can only be established by combining or modifying the teachings of the prior art to produce the claimed invention where there is some teaching, suggestion, or motivation to do so found either in the references themselves or in the knowledge generally available to one of ordinary skill in the art. See In re Fine, 837 F.2d 1071, 5 USPQ2d 1596 (Fed. Cir. 1988) and In re Jones, 958 F.2d 347, 21 USPQ2d 1941 (Fed. Cir. 1992). In this case, the motivation to combine the references can be found in the knowledge generally available to one of ordinary skill in the art. It is a well known practice in the art of lubrication to utilize a ball valve outlet to control the flow of the lubricant and such utilization of the ball valve outlet as taught by Shepard in the outlets of Freda would have been obvious.

5. In response to applicant's argument that the examiner's conclusion of obviousness is based upon improper hindsight reasoning, it must be recognized that any judgment on obviousness is in a sense necessarily a reconstruction based upon hindsight reasoning. But so long as it takes into account only knowledge which was within the level of ordinary skill at the time the claimed invention was made, and does not include knowledge gleaned only from the applicant's disclosure, such a reconstruction is proper. See In re McLaughlin, 443 F.2d 1392, 170 USPQ 209 (CCPA 1971).

Conclusion

6. THIS ACTION IS MADE FINAL. Applicant is reminded of the extension of time policy as set forth in 37 CFR 1.136(a).

A shortened statutory period for reply to this final action is set to expire THREE MONTHS from the mailing date of this action. In the event a first reply is filed within TWO MONTHS of the mailing date of this final action and the advisory action is not mailed until after the end of the THREE-MONTH shortened statutory period, then the shortened statutory period will expire on the date the advisory action is mailed, and any extension fee pursuant to 37 CFR 1.136(a) will be calculated from the mailing date of the advisory action. In no event, however, will the statutory period for reply expire later than SIX MONTHS from the mailing date of this final action.

Art Unit: 3682
